

ABSTRACT

A distance between vehicles is controlled based on an image detected by one stereo camera that is connected to a camera angle adjuster, so that deterioration of data processing speed can be prevented by adjusting the camera angle according to predetermined conditions.

5